Welcome Address by Dr. Ravi K Dhar, Director, JIMS, Vasant Kunj

Dr. Ravi K Dhar extended a warm welcome to the participants and the resource person through his welcome address. He emphasized that Knowledge sharing is a very noble task as Sharing of knowledge is important for any community of teachers and learners because a teacher is always first and foremost a student. The day a teacher begins to feel he/she have learnt the All, at that day he/she has stagnated and as known stagnation means death and destruction. He also mentioned that learning is an adventure as you learn it will broaden your horizon and will help you growing. He also emphasized on the importance of research in today*s world.

He ended his note by extending his best wishes and fruitful learning experience to all the participants.

Day- 1 of FDP (05/07/2021)

The first day of E-FDP started with overview of the learning schedule of whole FDP by Dr. Himani Gupta, Associate Professor, JIMS. She introduced what is time series analysis and what are the different components of Time series. Moving to the next concept she discussed Traditional View about time series and the basic assumptions related to it. After discussing Traditional View in detailed she moved towards the Modern View about Time Series Analysis and the issues in related to time series like Forecasting, Estimation and Establishing the relationship. She also explained Deterministic Trend and Stochastic process and the two parameters relating to it i.e., Time and Event. After Completion of theoretical part, she started with the software “R”. The basics of R and different commands were discussed. In the end, Dr. Himani Gupta answered the queries of the participants.

Dr. Himani Gupta started with Day 1

Day- 2 of FDP (06/07/2021)

The session was started by Dr. Himani Gupta. In this session the participants were taught about the Differencing, Detrending and Descriptive analysis. Starting with differencing, she explained If the researcher is working on prices, then the log differencing is done and if the researcher is working on percentages, then the simple differencing is used. She discussed how to do differencing on the software R, the full hands-on experience was given to participants as the data for performing the difference task on R were already shared with them.

Dr. Himani Gupta on Day 2 of FDP

After Dr. Himani Gupta, the session was taken by Dr. Anu Bhardwaj. She delivered the lecture on Descriptive Analysis. She started by discussing what is descriptive and inferential referencing. Then she moved to what are the different parameters to measure descriptive analysis as to find Shape-histogram can be used, for Centre-mean and median can be used and to find spread-range and standard deviation can be used. She briefly explained mean, median, mode after that she started with discussing about the normality of data. After that she explained the use of Excel for Data Analysis of Descriptive Statistics like creating descriptive analysis table, creating histogram, finding Percentiles etc. In the end, Dr. Anu Bhardwaj answered the queries of the participants.

Day- 3 of FDP (07/07/2021)

The session was started by Dr. Himani Gupta. In this session the participants were taught about Unit Root Testing, Dealing with Structural break Autoregressive Integrated Moving Average (ARIMA) its application in forecasting the series using R application, Data for which was shared to the all participants. After that she started with Introduction of ARCH and GARCH with assumptions and Application of GARCH in forecasting the volatility i.e., Variation in risk on R. After that she discussed ARIMA is based on mean, Whereas ARCH and GARCH is based on variance. She gave proper Hands-On Experience to participants on installing rugarch in R, creating GARCH-MODEL FIT in R. In the end, she answered the queries of the participants.

After that, the session was taken over by Dr. Shruti Bhuttani. She delivered the lecture on Referencing. She started the theoretical part by explaining what is Referencing, the two levels where referencing can be done like In-text referencing and Reference List. She discussed what is the difference between Bibliography and referencing. After that she moved to clarifying the difference between Parenthetical and Narrative Citation. After that she discussed how to write In-text referencing and Reference list in case of one author, two authors, 3-5 authors and for 6-7 authors also. She also explained how to cite personal communication and referencing of books and different styles of referencing. After that she moved to practical application of referencing using Mendale and how to put it on Ms-word.

Dr. Shruti Bhutani on Day 3

Day- 4 of FDP (08/07/2021)

Ms. Divya Gupta, Assistant Professor, JIMS welcomed the external resource person, Prof. C.P. Gupta, Department of Finance & Business Economics, University of Delhi. She briefed about sir's profile.

Prof. C.P. Gupta started the day with some positive quotes and relating the quote with the fundamentals of econometrics. He introduced the basic assumptions of OLS method and discussed what could be the case when these assumptions are violated. Sir proceeded it with discussing about the endogeneity problem when the covariance between independent variable and error term is not equal to zero. It means that there is omitted variable biasedness in the model. Prof. C.P. Gupta then started with the two types of panels, balanced panels and unbalanced panels with the help of an example. Coming to the software, sir demonstrated the Panel Data analysis with the help of Stata software. Sir, showed some basic commands for Panel Data analysis in Stata. After teaching the commands, he showed one practical example in the Stata and explained what does each parameter indicate and how can we interpret our results in our research papers. Sir also showed the pooled data and how can we use OLS method in pooled data analysis. Sir also solved the queries of the participants throughout the session.

Day- 5 of FDP (09/07/2021)

The day 5 of the FDP started with motivational quote presented by Prof. C.P. Gupta that, “We rise by supporting others”. He then started the session with revision of the topics they did yesterday. Some participants also asked some doubts related to the topic of Day-4 and Sir answered them. Sir proceeded it with new topics for the day, Fixed & Random effects model and Hausman effect. He started with the two panels that are addressed by using panel data. Problem 1 deals with endogeneity problem that arises due to omitted variable bias. Whereas, Problem 2 deals with correlated error terms problem due to repeated observation of a cross-sectional unit. To the solutions, he started with Fixed effect model as it takes care of omitted variable bias by considering unobserved cross-sectional heterogeneity. He explained it in detail with the help of data set in the statistical software, Stata. He also explained Two-way effect, cross sectional effect and time effect. Sir proceeded with Random effect model in detail and its conditions required using this model. Sir proceeded to the last topic of the day, Hausman test which helps us in deciding which model to use, fixed effect model or random effect model. He also demonstrated with the help of data in the Stata software. He also solved queries of the participants throughout the session.

The screenshot shows a Zoom meeting interface. On the left, a slide titled "Strong Exogeneity and Weak Exogeneity" is displayed. The slide contains the following text:

- If  $E(u_{it}|X_{it-1}) = 0$  for all  $i = 1, 2, \dots$  and  $E(u_{it}|X_{it-1}) = 0$  for all  $i = 1, 2, \dots$ , then we have STRICT EXOGENEITY.
- Under Strict Exogeneity, the error term  $u$  is uncorrelated with the past, present and future values of  $X$  in such a case,  $X$  is completely independent of  $Y$ .
- If  $E(u_{it}|X_{it-1}) = 0$  for all  $i = 1, 2, \dots$  and  $E(u_{it}|X_{it-1}) = 0$  for all  $i = 1, 2, \dots$ , then we have WEAK EXOGENEITY.
- Under Weak Exogeneity, the error term is uncorrelated with ONLY the past values of  $X$ .

Day- 6 of FDP (10/07/2021)

The day 6 of the FDP started with a motivational quote, “Learning new things makes us to grow”. Ms. Divya Gupta welcomed everyone to the Day 6 of the FDP. Prof. C.P Gupta started the day 6 with the recapitulating the topics of previous day. After that, he started with how to handle complexities of Panel Data arises due to dynamic relation. Sir explained the dynamic panel model in detail. If we include the lagged values of the dependent variable, then the resultant model is called Dynamic Panel model. In this model, we add the lagged values of dependent variable as explanatory variables. He explained further about if we use OLS in dynamic panels then the model will not be BLUE. Sir used various econometrics equations and assumptions for the use of Dynamic Panel model and demonstrated it with the help of statistical software. Many doubts of the participants were resolved during the session. He also showed the various commands and website so that the difficulty arising in using STATA can be eliminated.

Arellano and Bond Estimators

- These estimators may be one-step Arellano-Bond estimator and two-step Arellano-Bond estimators.
- In the Two-step estimator, we use the estimates of the one-step Arellano-Bond estimator for the two-step Arellano-Bond estimator.
- Two-step Arellano-Bond estimator is more efficient as compared to one-step Arellano-Bond estimator.

Consider the following Dynamic Panel Data Model...

$$y_{it} = \alpha + \beta y_{it-1} + \delta x_{it} + \mu_i + \varepsilon_{it}$$

Handwritten notes:  $\beta$  may be  $> 1$  or  $< 1$

- Important: Note the assumptions about it:
  - To have a meaningful and stable model, we should have  $|\beta| < 1$ .
  - In this model,  $\mu_i$  is not specifically assumed whether it is fixed or random. Given the realistic assumptions, we allow  $\mu_i$  to be correlated with exogenous variables.
  - $\varepsilon_{it}$  is our usual error term satisfying all the conditions of simple classic regression model. Also,  $E(\mu_i, \varepsilon_{it}) = 0$
  - We also assume strict exogeneity between  $x_{it}$  and  $\varepsilon_{it}$

Day 1, Session I

Dr. Ravi K. Dhar, Director, Jagannath International Management School, Vasant Kunj

Topic - Research Paper Writing

The first session of the FDP was addressed by Dr. Ravi K. Dhar on the topic Research Paper Writing. Dr. Dhar initiated his address by emphasizing the emergence of logical reasoning during the Renaissance period. It had a positive influence on the mathematics and science. The period between 1450 and 1630 marked the beginning of the scientific revolution that focused on innovations. He referred to the view that society is part of social sciences instead of social studies as similar scientific temperament and methodology has been grafted on the subjects dealing with the humanity. He commenced with his argument on the need of logical presentations in scientific and technical research followed with inductive and deductive reasoning. Inductive research involves the search patterns from observation to reach conclusions; whereas, in deductive research the premises is the theory or phenomenon which is tested by formulating the hypotheses to check the validity in given circumstances.

During his address, he has emphasized on data collection and different methodologies that can be applied to conduct the research. The research design may include methodologies like content analysis, semiotic analysis, and meta-analysis. The session was followed with question and answers round. The questions from the participants were mainly dealing with publication of the paper in the indexed journals and the peer review process of the journals.

Dr. Ravi K. Dhar

Day 1, Session II

Dr. Enakshi Roy PhD Assistant Professor Towson University, USA

Topic: ‘News and Information Literacy’

In the second session of Day 1, Dr. Enakshi Roy, PhD, Assistant Professor from Towson University, USA expressed her views on the topic ‘News and Information Literacy’ with an emphasis on how media has become a party to the gender stereotyping and how media can only be the beacon of change if the society needs to break these stereotypes around gender representation and misrepresentation.

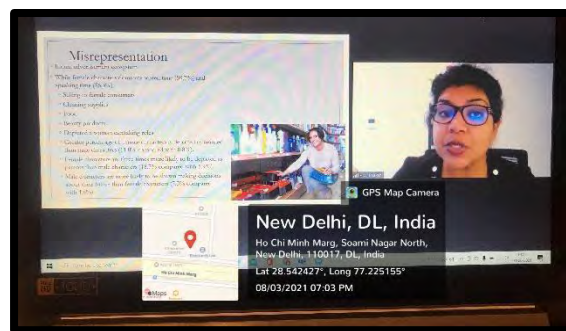

With a strong belief that the media can facilitate conversations around gender and issues related to it, Dr. Enakshi spoke about the under representation of women in news ecosystem in India. According to the statistics barely five percent of newsroom leadership positions are held by women, three out of every four news articles, across mainstream English and Hindi newspapers, are authored by male journalists and only one out of five panellists appearing in English debates is a woman.

The interactive Q&A session in the end proved to be enriching as different prospective research issues such as representation of LGBTQ community, portrayal of women in regional songs were discussed. The session concluded with the speaker and participants sharing their studies on different relevant issues with each other. The session was thought provoking enough to trigger the spark for research in the minds of the all the participating academicians.

Dr. Enakshi Roy

Day 2, Session I

Dr. Uma Shankar Pandey, Associate Professor & Head BA (JMC), SN College for Women, University of Calcutta

Topic: Null Hypothesis Significance Testing

Dr. Uma Shankar Pandey started the session by explaining the basic terminologies of quantitative data analysis. The Predictor and outcome, and three variables—moderating, mediating and control variables. He explained the concept of Standard Deviation and its importance in interpretation. While explaining the terms he has also discussed the concept of P value in research. He also distinguished between parametric tests and Non-Parametric Tests. While differentiating between these two he emphasized on the prerequisites of these tests,

Dr. Pandey also explained what the two types of hypotheses were i.e., Research Hypothesis, Statistical hypothesis, and statistical hypothesis always begins with the Null-hypothesis, which means to start with no effect present.

Dr. Pandey also demonstrated the steps of data interpretation using Excel and how researchers must interpret the available results. The Session concluded with a Q & A session.

Dr. Uma Shankar Pandey

Day 2, Session II

Dr. Jatin Srivastava PhD Associate Professor Director, Institute for International Journalism E. W. Scripps School of Journalism, Ohio University, USA

He delved further into areas of communication research such as Mass Communication, Political Communication, Health Communication, Persuasive Communication among others.

Dr. Jatin further interlinked research questions to different models of communication like Laswell's model, McCombs and Shaw model, Agenda Setting model. He also mentioned the sources of gathering data. He concluded the session by discussing the various research questions and how we can derive answers of it through identification of dependent and independent variables.

The session turned out to be informative for all attendees. The participants posed a variety of queries regarding research questions and communication strategies which were suitably answered by the speaker.

The highly interactive session threw up discussion and dialogue around, ‘Data as Currency’.

In addition to these fascinating sub topics, Mr. Bajpai spoke about the proliferation of AR and VR. He spoke about the concept of ‘Echo Chambers’ and the idea that, what we know is being bombarded at us repeatedly. Data Protection and the Indian IT act were amongst topics discussed in this factually charged session.

Mr. Rahul Bajpai

Dr. Himani Gupta illustrated the tools and packages of R Software and its use in Research. R is a platform-independent language or cross-platform programming language which means its code can run on all operating systems. R enables programmers to develop software for several competing platforms by writing a program only once. R can run quite easily on Windows, Linux, and Mac. R is mainly known as the language of statistics. It is the main reason why R is predominant than other programming languages for the development of statistical tools. R has a rich set of packages. R has over 10,000 packages in the CRAN repository which are constantly growing. R provides packages for data science and machine learning operations.

Dr. Himani Gupta

Ms. Shalini Narayan

Day 5 Session 1

Prof. Himadri Roy, Director, School of Gender and Development Studies

Topic: Areas of Research in Gender Studies

Prof. Himadri Roy conducted the session on the topic Research Areas in Gender Studies. He commenced the session by raising a number of questions to the participants relating to the field of research in Gender Studies. He probed the audiences to think on issues related to the under-representation of women, people belonging from the LGBT community, communication in respect to gender studies, history/ area of gender studies, bodies of communication (how do we communicate) and gender related concerns in cyberspace.

The representation in media can be viewed as the way of utilizing such media platforms for the over or under of misrepresentation of women, especially in a political perspective. The psychological representation comes along with knowledge representation i.e., how women are often subjected to the biases of society when dealing with different fields. For example, the thought of a person being a ‘_Professor of Literature’, often times a number of people imagine the position to be taken by a woman. Similarly, when a ‘_cook’ is talked of, the image is thought to be of a woman, but when a ‘_Chef’ is mentioned, the image of a man is created in the minds of society. He emphasized on the concerns related to male gaze and the position of men and women in the working set up. So, in all the aspects of life, gender issues play a critical role in deciding the identity of an individual. The session was followed with the question and answers round and the majority of the questions were related to the stereotypical images of the gender and their roles or gaze in the society.

Prof. Himadri Roy

Topic: Word Cloud & Extraction of data from Twitter

Dr. Harsha Ratnani discussed the data extraction techniques on Twitter and sentiment analysis using packages of R Programming. Sentiment analysis is a text analysis technique that allows companies to make sense of qualitative data. By detecting positive and negative sentiment in text data, such as tweets, product reviews, and support tickets, you can understand how customers feel about your brand, product, or service, and gain insights that lead to data-driven decisions. It can be performed by requesting API and raising the ticket on the twitter.

Prof. Harsha Ratnani

Topic “Health Communication research and Covid-19 Pandemic: Promises and challenges”

The session was highly educational as Dr. Sinha started the session by explaining the concept of health communication. He further elucidated the research prospects in health communication and the role & significance of research in health communication. Dr. Sinha shared how the research purpose affects the research design. He differentiated between qualitative and quantitative research and there and their significance and importance in the current scenario.

The session covered the different types of research & methods of data collection in detail. Dr. Sinha also explained the considerations that should be taken into mind while choosing between primary and secondary research due to the credibility factors.

Dr. Sinha also shed light on the role of communication in research and scope of research in health sector keeping the COVID-19 crisis as a standard.

Dr. Rajesh Sinha

FDP Day 6, Session II

Dr. Srinivas Melkote, Eminent Development Theorist, Professor Emeritus

Bowling Green State University

Topic: Health Communication Research and Covid-19 Pandemic: Promises and Challenges

During the discussion, Dr. Melkote picked up a number of in-depth areas to analyse risky behavioural changes and in context to covid-19. He gave few examples about government officials, common individuals denying to follow up with the necessary protocols under the level of risk perception, level of fear, quantity and quality of information during pandemic, source of information, cultural-social norms and individual habits. Dr. Melkote further explained the various limitations of behavioural change. He mentioned the faults regarding some of the safety protocols, such as:

20 second hand wash—this, statistically can only be possible with houses that have a proper water system, because in areas of minority where people cannot afford such facilities, they are not able to comply with washing their hands for 20 seconds, seeing as though it wastes a lot of water that might be of use to them in other places. Self- isolation and quarantine—this cannot be logically possible for those people who can only afford living a life lesser than average even. Face mask—the usage of face mask requires money and water.

At the end of the session, Dr. Melkote mentioned bringing about the outcomes, goals relating to Social Justice in health communication research and practice. He emphasized the meaning of Social Justice in health communication and practices, as “the guarantee of good healthcare and wellbeing to all members in a society.” The individual should have access to these facilities regardless of their caste; gender etc., education and resources as well.

Dr. Srinivas Melkote

Learning Outcome:

- The participants gained an Understanding of trending research topics
- The participants understood the Importance of Research Fundamentals
- The participants understood the software requirements for media research
